FIELD TRAINING OFFICER

AT EMPA

A police agency's effectiveness is directly related to the quality of its police officers. Today, a legally defensible evaluation process is a must in reducing an agency's liability. This course help trainees understand their significance in their organization as a field training officer, introduce them to different field training formats, and help them recognize how people learn, aiding in the transfer of knowledge to a newly hired officer.

Attendees will also be introduced to the dynamics of interpersonal communications and how to use the knowledge of communications to provide feedback and constructive criticism to the trainee in an effective manner. The attendee will be informed of techniques to effectively teach the trainee with minimal effort, in the shortest period of time possible, the dynamics of human learning, and how to do so in a litigious, defensible manner.

PARTICIPANTS WILL RECEIVE 24 HOURS OF TRAINING
